Course information

Content 1
In this project, you work independently on a research and design project. Within a time restriction (196 hours), you can work on a film, but also on exploration, experiment and contextual studies into form, image or movement, according to your ideas. You then round off your project with a result that you present.

You make a plan for this period and discuss it with the supervisory lecturer.

What can you do? For example, you can: set up research / do an experiment / carry out a creative process / collaborate.

If you think it went well, what do you want to work towards? What is feasible? Which aspects do you think are important to watch out for afterwards?

After this project, you share the result in the group and discuss the choices you made during the work.

Learning objectives
In the Individual Project, you work on your own research and design project. This may result in a film, or in other results. It depends on the plans you have for the links between the subject, the form and the target/target group.
